

Grief & Bereavement Resources

Trusted local and national support, organized for adults, children, and specific kinds of loss.

Grief takes time, and it rarely moves in a straight line. Some days feel steady; others arrive like a wave. Support can make those days easier to carry. The resources below are free or low cost, and open to you whether or not your loved one was in our care.

Support at Henry Ford Health

Hospice bereavement groups & Bereavement News

Groups in person and online, plus a monthly newsletter.

586-276-9570

SandCastles grief support

For children and teens ages 3–18 and their families.

313-771-7005

Spiritual care & chaplaincy

For people of every faith, and of none.

313-916-2860

For children & teens

Henry Ford SandCastles

Peer groups and an annual camp; aboutsandcastles.org

313-771-7005

Ele's Place

Grief centers for children & families across Michigan; elesplace.org

National Alliance for Children's Grief

Find local programs anywhere; childrengrieve.org

The Dougy Center

Plain-language guidance for grieving children; dougy.org

For adults in the community

New Hope Center for Grief Support

Groups & workshops in southeast Michigan; newhopecenter.net

Hospice of Michigan grief support

Programs across the state; hom.org

GriefShare

Peer groups hosted by many metro Detroit congregations; griefshare.org

Michigan 211

Help finding services near you, any hour; mi211.org

2-1-1

After particular kinds of loss

The Compassionate Friends

After the death of a child, at any age; compassionatefriends.org

Share Pregnancy & Infant Loss Support

nationalshare.org

Alliance of Hope

After a suicide loss; allianceofhope.org

TAPS

After the death of a service member; taps.org

800-959-8277

Online & reading

What's Your Grief

Plain-spoken articles and courses; whatsyourgrief.com

Modern Loss / Open to Hope

Candid essays and community; modernloss.com, opentohope.com

Books for adults

It's OK That You're Not OK (Devine); Bearing the Unbearable (Cacciatore)

Books for children

The Invisible String (Karst); Tear Soup (Schwiebert & DeKlyen)

When grief needs more support

Grief is not an illness, and there is no deadline for it. Still, it sometimes helps to bring in a professional — consider talking with your doctor or a grief counselor if, months on, everyday life still feels unmanageable, if you are sleeping or eating very little, or if hopelessness will not lift. If you ever have thoughts of harming yourself, call or text 988 now.

The community and national organizations listed here are independent of Henry Ford Health. We share them for your convenience and review this list regularly.